FEA TURED SPEAKERS

SHEILA DAVIS, DNP, ANP-BC, FAAN is the Chief Nursing Officer for Partners in Health (PIH) in Boston. She also serves as Assistant Clinical Professor at the MGH Institute of Health Professions and is an Advanced Nurse Practitioner in Infectious Diseases at MGH. Dr. Davis teaches Global Health and HIV/AIDS related courses. She joined Partners in Health, a global non-governmental organization in 2010. She works in many of PIH’s 12 countries on nursing related programs in education, nursing practice and leadership, health care delivery programs, and health capacity building. Dr. Davis is a frequent national and international speaker on the role of nursing in human rights. She was inducted as a Fellow into the American Academy of Nursing in 2008.

THOMAS POGGE, PhD is the Director of the Global Justice Program and the Leitner Professor of Philosophy and International Affairs at Yale University. Dr. Pogge received a PhD in philosophy from Harvard in 1983 and has taught philosophy, political science, and ethics at universities around the world. His book World Poverty and Human Rights offers proposals on how to achieve global economic equality. He currently heads a team effort on identifying better indices of poverty and gender equity, and improving access to medicines to reduce the global burden of disease.

SANDY WYNNE, BA, MSA organized local Fair Trade activists to make Burlington, Vermont, the 12th official Fair Trade Town in the U.S. That group has evolved into the Fair Trade Burlington Network (FTBN), working to educate consumers and promote making trade fair. Her group collaborates with large and small companies that support Fair Trade such as Ben & Jerry’s Ice Cream, Green Mountain Coffee Roasters, VT Coffee Company, VT Artisan Coffee & Tea, Equal Exchange and Dean’s Beans. In addition they work closely with Fair Trade Federation members such as Dolma, Hope for Women, and Creative Women.

THE DARTMOUTH HEALTHCARE COMMUNITY PRESENTS...
Welcome

Dear friends and colleagues,

We invite you to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Dartmouth healthcare community’s Great Issues in Medicine and Global Health Symposium by attending and being inspired by provocative presentations and discussions about “Global Partnerships” – the eighth Millennium Development Goal. Thomas Pogge, PhD, a world renowned spokesperson for global justice, will give the Keynote Address to the Upper Valley community and a combined grand rounds to health care professionals. He will also meet with Dartmouth’s students of business and medicine. Sheila Davis, DNP, ANP-BC, FAAN, Chief Nursing Officer for Partners in Health in Boston, will challenge nurses, other health professionals, and Dartmouth’s public health students to understand their roles – global and local – in addressing the human rights of the underserved. Sandy Wynne, MSA of the Fair Trade Burlington (Vermont) Network will join Thomas Pogge to encourage local high school students to act individually and collectively on “the moral obligation to end poverty.”

This year’s Symposium topic and speakers are very exciting for a region that cares deeply about social justice and population health. Whether it’s building partnerships to help Haitians after the 2010 earthquake, partnerships to assist neighbors after 2011’s Hurricane Irene, or partnerships to eradicate HIV-AIDS in Africa over three decades, we celebrate the thousands of “doers” across our region. With Symposium co-founder Mark Israel, MD, Director of the Norris Cotton Cancer Center at Dartmouth-Hitchcock, we ask that you join us in discussing one of the world’s greatest challenges and opportunities – advancing global and local partnerships to improve health in under-resourced countries and communities.

Sincerely,

John Butterly, MD
Symposium Co-Director

Mary Turco, EdD
Symposium Co-Director

Symposium Objectives

The overall goal of the Symposium is to engage our general and professional communities in discussions that lead, ultimately, to individual or collective action about the eighth Millennium Development Goal – maximizing global partnerships for the development of under-resourced countries and communities. At the end of the Symposium, participants from different target audiences will be able to:

• describe the concept of health as a human right;
• discuss methods for advancing global partnerships to improve health in under-resourced countries and communities;
• identify methods to make essential drugs accessible through partnerships with Pharma;
• debate ways to work with private sector companies to increase access to new technologies;
• describe the role and power of local and global Nursing partnerships; and,
• discuss opportunities to promote fair trade.
